GS/NURS 5300A 3.0 Quantitative Research Methods in Nursing Science
Course Outline – Fall 2013

Course Director: Dr. Mina Singh, RN, PhD (section A)

A. Calendar Course Description

This online course focuses on acquisition and application of fundamental concepts, methods, and procedures of quantitative nursing research required to develop a research proposal; including but not limited to: developing researchable questions, designing research, selecting appropriate methods, and analysis strategies.

Co-requisite or prerequisite NURS 5100 6.0 or with permission of the Course Director.

B. Expanded Course Description

This course will enhance the student’s knowledge in quantitative research methodology, one of the multiple ways of knowing in nursing. The student will develop the skills required to develop a research proposal using quantitative research methods by completing key steps in this process.

By the end of this course, the student will be able to:

- formulate researchable questions and hypotheses;
- understand the relationship between theory and research;
- synthesize current literature pertaining to the research questions;
- articulate the linkages between the research question and study design;
- compare and contrast various quantitative research designs;
- understand threats to the internal validity of quantitative research designs and methods to reduce such threats;
- identify appropriate data collection methods, including validity and reliability of data collections instruments; and
- demonstrate knowledge in a selected number of intermediate data analyses methods, such as multiple regression, ANOVA, and RM-ANOVA.

This is an Internet course and students are required to regularly access Moodle and their yorku.ca email account. Note that email communication about the course should be via your yorku.ca email. Access to Moodle requires a Passport York login and password. If you have managed to obtain a copy of this outline, but do not yet have a Passport York account, go to http://www.yorku.ca/computing/students/accounts/passportyork.html to set one up. To access Moodle, go to http://moodle.yorku.ca and remember to join the course so you can obtain materials and start posting.
